FARMER'S ALMANACK.

FOR THE YEAR OF OUR LORD

1825;

Being the first after Bissextile or Leap Year,

CALCULATED FOR THE MERIDIAN OF HALIFAX IN NOVA SCOTIA

But will serve for any part of the Province.

Comprising whatever is deemed Essential in a Work of this Kind.

"May plentiful crops—a Sun ever mild
A spirit of kindness—and friendship abound
Transform to an Eden our forests so wild,
And sympathy only occasion a tear."
"May gratitude kindle the flame of devotion,
And love reign triumphant through' earth and the ocean."

HALIFAX:

Printed and Sold at the Free Press Office and at the Store of

C. H. BELCHER.

Price 6s. Dozen—7½ single.

Directions for coming up Halifax Harbour, taken from the printed Directions in the Custom-House at Halifax.

SAMBRO island and light house is in latitude 44 deg. 30 min. N and longitude 63 deg. 32 min. W.

From the westward, bring the light to bear N E if it bears more easterly, stretch to the southward till it bears N E and as much northerly as you please, there being no shoal or ledge to the southward; then keep it open on your larboard bow; give it more than a mile and a half birth—as much more as you please.

Note—The western ledges lie from the light S W distant two miles, the other W S W about one league; the eastern ledges lie in a range nearly some above water; the outermost one mile and a half from the light bearing from it E N E.

When the light bears north distant about 2 miles, run N E 4 miles, then north will carry you to Chedabucto Head at a proper distance clear of danger.

When a breast of Chedabucto Head, run N ½ W for the south point George's Island.

When within half a mile of George's island you may enter harbour we of it in 18 fathoms, or east of it in 15.

In passing between Sandwich point and Meagher's beach run nearest the point to shun a shoal which runs off S W from the beach.

There is also a shoal lying one mile south of Sandwich point.

Coming from the eastward, run for the light and you cannot fail seeing Chedabucto Head as you open Halifax Harbour; the light being 4 miles distant from the Head to the S W.

RECEIPTS.

A liquid black for Shoes or Boots.

Take Ivory black, and brown Sugar, of each two ounces; sweet oil [illegible] table spoonful; add gradually thereto a pint of vinegar cold, and stir the whole gradually till incorporated.

Another

To one pint of vinegar add half an ounce of vitrolic acid, half an ounce of copperas, two ounces brown sugar and two ounces and a half of ivory black, mix the whole well together.

To take out Pitch, Wax, Rosin, or Tar.

If any of these happen on a garment either silk, linen or woollen, pour a little oil of turpentine on the place, and let it soak in about half an hour then rub it but not too hard and you will find the turpentine has soaked out the glutinous quality, so that it will crumble out like small bits of dry dirt.

French method of taking spots of Ink out of Linen.

Take a piece of mould Candle, (or common candle will do nearly as well,) melt it and dip the spotted part of the linen into the melted tallow. It may then be washed and the spots will disappear, without injuring the linen. This is the best method hitherto discovered.

Chinese Method of Mending China.

Boil a piece of flint glass in rain water, to clean it five or six minutes, beat it to fine powder and grind it well with the white of an egg, and it joins China without riviting so that no art can break it again in the same place. You are to observe the composition is to be ground extremely fine on a painters stone.

To make Rye Coffee.

Take clean good Rye and wash it well in several waters, to separate all the dust blightened grains &c. Then put it into boiling water over the fire and boil it till it swells so as to burst some of the grains: Drain and dry it in the oven when you have been baking. It is then ready to burn or dry over the fire as coffee, Eggs ought to be added. Grind and use it as coffee, with this drink, bread and butter, cheese and dried beef, you may sit down on the produce of your own Farms.

To make Oats doubly nutritious for Horses.

Instead of grinding the Oats, break them in a mill, and the same quantity will be doubly nutritious. Another method is to boil the corn, and give it the horses with the liquor in which it has been boiled; the result will be, that instead of 6 bushels in a crude state, three bushels so prepared, will be found to answer, and to keep the animals in superior vigour and condition.

Mildewed Hay and Corn

May be recovered and rendered sweet and agreeable to cattle, by the use of common salt. The late Mr. Arthur Young recommends the Salt to be used in the proportion of a peck to one load of Hay, which is to be strewed upon the hay, in layers, as it is unpacked from the putrid stock. Horses as well as other cattle, will eat greedily damaged hay that has been salted, which they will not touch without the salt. A solution of common salt sprinkled on corn affected with mildew, will completely remove the disease.

An Excellent Yeast.

The following method of making Yeast for bread, is both easy and expeditious. Boil one pound of good flour, a quarter of a pound of brown sugar and a little salt, in two gallons of water, for one hour. When milkwarm, bottle and cork it close, it will be fit for use in 24 hours. One pint of this will make 18lbs of bread.

To prevent the growth of Weeds round Fruit Trees.

Spread on the ground round the fresh transplanted trees, as far as the roots extend the refuse stalks of flax after the fibrous parts have been separated. This gives them very surprising vigour, as no weeds will grow under flax refuse, and the earth remains fresh & loose. Old trees treated in the same manner when drooping in an orchard, will recover and push out vegerian shoots. In place of flax stalks, the leaves which fall from the trees in autumn may be substituted, but they must be covered with waste twigs or anything else that can prevent the wind from blowing them away.

Apple Jelly.

It is not known, perhaps, so generally as it ought to be, that apples make an excellent jelly. The process is as follows :— They are to be pared, quartered, the core completely removed, and put into a pot without water, closely covered, and placed in an oven over a fire, when pretty well stewed, the juice is to be squeezed out through a cloth, to which a little white of egg is added and then the sugar. Skim it previous to boiling, then reduce it to a proper consistence & an excellent jelly will be the product.

The Lass of Fair Wone.

Beside the parson's bower of yew,
Why strays a troubled spright,
That peaks and pines, and dimly shines
Thro' curtains of the night?

Why steals along the pond of toads
A gliding fire so blue,
That lights a spot where grows no grass,
Where falls no rain or dew?

1825. JANUARY begins on Saturday. Winter.

The parson's daughter once was good,
And gentle as the dove,
And young and fair—and many came
To win the damsel's love.

High o'er the hamlet, from the hill,
Beyond the winding stream,
The windows of a stately house
In sheen of evening gleam.

He sent the maid his picture, girt
With diamond, pearl and gold:
And silken paper, sweet with musk,
This gentle message told;

"Let go thy sweethearts, one and all,
Shalt thou be basely wooe'd;
That worthy art to gain the heart
Of youths of noble blood?

Our long winters are generally considered as being a great damage and expence to the farming interest at large. To those who choose to make them such, this is undoubtedly true; but to such as consult steadily their true interest, the fact is quite otherwise. Our northern winters, while they undeniably contribute in no small degree, to the health and vigour of the human frame, are no longer in reality than

"The tale I would to thee bewray,
In secret must be said;
At midnight hour I'll seek thy bower;
Fair lass be not afraid.

"And when the am'rous nightingale
Sings sweetly to his mate,
I'll pipe my quail call from the field;
Be kind, nor make me wait."

In cap and mantle clad he came,
At night with lonely tread;
Unseen and silent as a mist,
And hush'd the dogs with bread.

And when the am'rous nightingale
Sung sweetly to his mate,
She heard his quail call from the field,
And, ah! ne'er made him wait.

quence is the poor farmer's summer work all goes, to use a homely phrase, "to pay for a dead horse," & the farmer must run into debt for the next year's supplies. Thus he continues in debt and torment. Now the wants of life are but few; had the farmer gone without many of the articles he had bought on credit, and which he could have gone without and felt no inconvenience from it, the toil of the season he would have performed with a light heart, with a reasonable prospect that another year he might enjoy more of the good things of this life without being indebted for them.

Apply every dry substance you can collect and spare, for litter for your stock through the winter; it will not only keep them warm, and thus save hay, but be also the means of giving life and vigour to all parts of your husbandry, by the manure it will make.

Try to convert to the best use & profit every article that will promote the growth and better the condition of your cattle, horses, sheep, & cows. Give out all such coarse

There beat her heart, and heav'd her breast,
And pleas'd ev'ry sense;
And there the glowing death of lust
Did blast her innocence.

But when the fragrant beans began
Their fallow blooms to shed,
Her sparkling eys their lustre lost:
Her cheek, its roses fled.

And when she saw the pods increase,
The ruddier cherries stain,
She felt her silken robe grow tight,
Her waist new weight sustain.

And when the mowers went afield,
The yellow corn to ted,
She felt her burden stir within
And shook with tender dread.

1	fine weather	If you yard your cows at night thro' the Summer, collect the manure into a heap in some convenient part of the barn yard, to prevent its being wasted by the sun and rains; a few minutes attention in the morning when the cows are turned out to pasture, would collect a heap of several loads in a season, ready for your wheat or grass grounds in autumn. Cart on occasionally a cart load or two at a time, some rich earth, and cover the heap; which will commix with the manure by fermentation, and become rich compost, thus increasing the quantity and augmenting your wealth. The horse dung also from the stable, if added to the heap, with the earth will much improve its quality.

Then traitor feel how wretched they
In hopeless shame immerst;
Then smite thy forehead on the wall,
With horrid curses burst.

Roll thy dry eyes in wild despair—
Unsooth'd thy grinning woe.
Thro' thy pale temples fire the ball,
And sink to fiends below.

With bloody hands beside the pond
A shallow grave she tore
"There rest in God, there shame and want,
Thou canst not suffer more.

Me vengeance waits, my poor, poor child,
Thy wounds shall bleed afresh,
When ravens from the gallows tear
Thy mothers mouldring flesh."

of the poet's eulogiums on the cheap, yet delicious repast which this pudding eaten with milk affords. We hope the farmers will never so far ape the fashions of the proud and wealthy, as to acquire a taste sufficiently vitiated to reject this invigorating food. A due proportion of such diet is no doubt as well calculated to raise a fine hardy and comely race of men and women; as any other whatever. Away then with your slops of tea, and hold fast to hasty pudding and milk:

Where swardland is intended for indian corn it should be broken up in the fall; and if it be a stiff or wettish soil it ought to be thrown up in high narrow ridges by a second ploughing. In the Spring the ground should be well manured and mellowed with ploughing immediately before planting.

XII Month DECEMBER 31 Days 1825.

Hard by the bower her gibbet stands
Her skull is still to show,
It seems to eye the barren grave
Three spans in length below.

That is the spot where grows no grass,
Where falls no rain or dew,
Whence steals along the pond of toads
A hov'ring fire so blue

And nightly, when the ravens come,
Her ghost is seen to glide;
Pursues and tries to quench the flame,
And pines the pool beside.
